Here are a few reasons why H. S. Stout has succeeded in building up the largest tailoring business in Paris:

FIRST-He 'ecognized the fact that five years ago that the only $4.60 day of big profits and small sales was past. SECOND-He cuts the price of tailor-made garments at least 40

THIRD—He kept up the quality of his materials, his styles and his workmanship. FOURTH-He always does as he advertised.

AS A RESULT.

As a result of this system he has built up a large trade that appreciates the fact that they save twenty dollars on a single Suit or Overcoat. "Many customers at a small profit rather than a few customers at a big profit," says H. S. Stout.

If you want credit, your high-price tailor gladly extends it, for he makes you pay dearly for it in the end.

A SEGOND GUSTER MASSAGRE.

Gen. Bacon and His Little Band of Santiago Regulars Reported Wiped out of Existence.

A Fierce Battle With Indians in the Wilderness of Northern Minnesota on Wednesday.

Known That Many Were Killed on Both Sides. Failure to Hea From the Troops Ominous-Reinforcements Ordered Sent By Alger-Indians Claimed to Have Been Cheated By the Government and Are Revengeful, firmed rumor has reached here that the soldiers and Gen. Bacon have been massacred by the Indians at Leech lake. A Brainerd operator says this reported massacre is true.

WALKER, Minn., Oct. 6 .- A hard fight with the Indians occurred Wednesday and the reports from the scene lake are somewhat conflicting, al-several hours, which fact is considered somewhat ominous. The most serious report is that the detachment of troops with Gen. Bacon was massacred, the general himself being said to be among the dead.

Three newspaper correspondents, Brill, of the St. Paul Pioneer Press; Beaton, of the Minneapolis Tribune, and Knappen, of the Minneapolis Times, are known to have been in the fight and one report is that they were killed, while another says they are now prisoners in the hands of the Indians. This little town has been full of excitement all day and as the reports from the other side of the lake came in the people became frantic and efforts were made to get up a force to go to the help of the troops. This will be sent in a few hours, re-enforcements coming on a special train from Brainerd. However, additional soldiers are most needed and the feeling is general that they can not come too

Wednesday's fight occurred 30 miles from Walker on a point jutting out into the lake near Bear island. The soldiers, 100 strong, under command of Gen. John M. Bacon and Maj. Wilkinson, had arrived here last evening and at half-past four this morning they went on board boats, and were carried to the point named, where a landing was made with considerable difficulty, a gale having started up a pretty lively sea. The landing was effected at about 8 o'clock. Scouts were hustled through the bush in every direction, and for three hours no trace of the Indians could be found. Every precaution against ambush had been taken. Finally, at about halfpast eleven the soldiers were drawn up in an open space near the shore lake and preparations were about to begin for din The soldiers were still in line though the coffee making had commenced. Suddenly a shot was fired from the house of Bog-Ah-Mah-Ge-Shig, the Indian who has been the head and center of this whole difficulty. Ex-Marshal Ed Harris, a Walker half-breed, was struck, his arm being broken. This shot seemed to be a signal, for immediately shots came from every direction and three men dropped and were carried to the rear. The soldiers, who are veterans, not alone of the Santiago battle, but of many an Indian skirmish, knew what to do, and at the first shot all found shelter and awaited another volley to tell them where to shoot. Gen. Bacon and Maj. Wilkinson steadied their men with encouraging words, and with a second volley the Indians attempted a rush on the soldiers. The rattling volley from the regulars that met the oncoming reds stopped the rush and drove back the Indians, although half a dozen of them were dropped by the soldiers' fire, fire from the Pillagers then more scattering and fine charge and drove them back, though the firing continued. The steamers on which the soldiers had come as well as those used by the newspaper correspondents were fired on by the Indians with effect. Inspector Tinker received a shot in the leg and had his sleeve riddled.

Brill of the Pioneer Press, Beaton of the Tribune and the Times' correspondent had landed prior to the arrival of the soldiers, a previous experience having made them believe the danger was slight. They were thus brought into the thick of and fought with the The men on vigorous part with their revolvers unpursued by the painted savages. The two correspondents, who are still in Walker, started for the island Wednesday night, and hope to get back in time to give some idea of the situation and as to whether the other newspaper men and the soldiers still live.

> Washington, Oct. 6.—Secretary Bliss received a telegram Wednesday night from Indian Inspector Tinker, announcing a fight with the Pillager Indians in Minnesota Wednesday. It did not say how many were killed. Marshal O'Connor wired Attorney General Griggs that a general Indian uprising was imminent.

> On receipt of these advices Secretary Alger ordered reinforcements sent to the scene at once on a special train, if necessary, and with a Gatling gun if

St. Paul, Minn., Oct. 6.—Orders were issued late Wednesday night for additional troops to go to Leech lake and 200 soldiers will leave for there on a special train early in the morning, reaching the scene of trouble early Thursday afternoon. This is in accordance with a telegram from Adjt. Gen. Corbin to Lieut. Col. Sturgis, assistant adjutant general for the department of Dakota.

The Pillager and other neighboring Indians of the White Earth reservation claim to have many reasons for their present outbreak, although the direct trouble with the Pillagers comes over attempts to bring in some of the Indians to the United States court at Duluth in connection with liquor sell-

Their grievances go back through many years and there have been legislative and other attempts to settle them, one of the latest being the Nelson law regarding the sale of timber on the Indian lands. However the Indians claimed that the method of disposing of this was both cumbersome and expensive and that they were the sufferers. In regard to serving as as witnesses in illegal liquor selling cases, they claimed that the deputy marshals left them to find their own way home from Duluth without having paid them the proper mileage. This is denied by the deputies. The leader in the trouble with Bog-Ah-Mah-Ge-Shig, not a chief, who recently returned from court and was soon afterwards sought again by the deputies. He alleged ill-treatment in being turned adrift penniless in Duluth and aroused the other Indians to protest against the way he claimed to have been treated. The United States marshal insists that the old man's story is unfounded but the reds had been stirred up to such a pitch that trouble apparently became unavoidable, in view of the deeply seated feeling of general illtreatment in regard to their timber ands and their lands and rights in MINNEAPOLIS, Oct. 6. - A telegram received at midnight from Walker, Minn., says a fierce fight between the Indians and the troops is still in progress. Marshal O'Connor reports several fatalities among the soldiers, but does not give the number. A special train is coming from Brainard with a hundred armed citizens.

WALKER, Minn., Oct. 6.-With the single exception of Santiago there was not as bloody a land battle fought during the Hispano-American war as that which occurred around the hour of noon Wednesday away off on the border land of Minnesota civilization-Bear island, Leech lake. There are dead Indians all over this island Wednesday steamers saw them in the fight taking night. There may be a half dozen of them, as reported in the early evening til they were compelled to fly closely bulletins, and there may be 40. The place is so isolated, 18 miles by water east of this point, there is so much confusion, and the people are in such a state of fright that it is difficult to get any further information than that a fierce fight, lasting over three hours, No direct word has come from either has occurred; that a lot of red men correspondents who were with the and white men were killed, and that troops or from the soldiers. #### THE VICE ADMIRAL GRADE.

It Will Be Recommended to Congress for Dewey by President McKinley and Secretary Long.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6.—It is said President McKinley and Secretary of the Navy Long have determined to recommend to congress the revival of the grade of vice admiral, to be filled by the promotion of Rr. Adm. Dewey. President McKinley in his annual message, and Secretary Long, in his annual report, intend to devote considerable space to the achievements of the Asiatic squadron under the command of Rr. Adm. Dewey and the splendid judgment and diplomatic tact that officer has displayed in handling the many difficult questions which arose before the arrival of the American troops and the capture of Manila. As under the existing law Rr. Adm. Dewey will reach the retiring age in December, 1899, there is a strong probability that Secretary Long will also urge that congress pass a law permitting the retention of that officer upon the active list for an additional ten years. A law permitting such action in the case of officers receiving the thanks of congress for gallant conduct in the civil war is now on the statute books, but the authorities would be glad to see the law changed so that officers of the recent and future wars will be similarly rewarded. There is little doubt that congress will willingly adopt the recommendation regarding Rr. Adm. Dewey's advancement.

As the Steel Monster Gently Slid Into the Water a Mighty Cheer Went Up-Novel Gift From the Workmen to the Fair Sponser.

NEWPORT NEWS, Va., Oct. 5.-At 12:33 Tuesday the mightiest ship of Uncle Sam's fighting navy glided smoothly into the waters of the historic James river.

As the steel monster trembled in her flight from earth to sea, Miss Nancy Leiter, of Chicago, broke a bottle of sparkling champagne upon the vessel's prow and pronounced the words that made it the godchild of the great western commonwealth, and caused the 20,000 people assembled to send up a cheer that could be heard for miles.

The governor of Illinois shook hands with the governor of Virginia, the newly floated ship rose proudly from her initial dip, and the launching was pronounced a success.

Then everyone in the throng proceeded to enjoy the day to the utmost, in anticipation of the banquet in the the evening.

WHEELER TESTIFIES.

The Story of El Caney and San Juan Told to the Investigating Committee-Praise for Shafter.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5.-The war investigation commission began its examination of witnesses Tuesday by placing Gen. Joseph Wheeler on the stand. Maj. Mills administered the sath.

Ex-Gov. Beaver conducted the examination, developing the essential facts as to Gen. Wheeler's rank and his command. Gen. Wheeler stated that he left Tampa for Cuba on June 14, but that he had no knowledge of the plan of campaign before going aboard the transport. He then told of the voyage. On June 21 Gen. Shafter ordered him to disembark the next day, which he did, with a portion of his command. He rode into the country four miles that day and the next moved his troops to Jaguracita. He then began his reconnoitering, arranging with Gen. Castillo, of the Cuban army, to send Cuban troops with his men for the reconnoisance, but unfortunately the Cubans did not keep the engagement.

He told of the first battle at La Quasima, stopping to compliment especially the regular troops and also to speak of their excellent firing. They soon learned to distrust the reports and estimates of the Spaniards. Gen. Wheeler had not been able, on his own account, to secure any accurate estimate of the Spanish loss during the American approach upon Santiago.

Speaking of the proceedings after the first battles he explained that he had been reported sick and there were some movements just prior to the battle of El Caney with which he was not familiar. "I was not sick," he said, "but I had been on the 29th and 30th. Still I had not gone to the sick list. I had a fever, but I appreciated the situation, took medicine and came out all right."

"I ought to say," said the general in the course of his testimony, "that it was magnificent to see officers of high rank go ashore with their packs on their backs, accepting all the fortunes of war with their men. They slept on the ground with the soldiers. None of us were mounted and we were without tents for seven days."

Speaking of the character of the roads from the coast to the points occupied by the Americans, he said that with such attention as they were able to give to them they were very good. The rains had not been severe up to that time. The roads were narrow, but equal to the demands. The supplies were considered sufficient except in a few instances and in those instances the deficiency was only tem-

Gen. Wheeler said in response to a question that Cervera's fleet was the objective of the campaign. There was no reason why the Spanish troops should not have made a sortie from Santiago, and he asked Gen. Toral after the surrender why he had not attacked. The latter replied that the failure to do so was because his men were foot sore. Yet Gen. Wheeler could not accept this explanation, for the Spanish soldiers were not foot

Gen. Wheeler's opinion was that the Spanish commander was not able to face the Americans in the open.

A Wife Says:

"We have four children. With the first three I suffered almost unbearable pains from 12 to 14 hours, and had to be placed under the influence of chloroform. I used three bottles of Mother's Friend before our last child came, which is a strong, fat and healthy boy, doing my housework up to within two hours of birth, and suffered but a few hard pains. This liniment is the grandest remedy ever made."

Mother's

will do for every woman what it did for the Minnesota mother who writes the above letter. Not to use it during pregnancy is a mistake to be paid for in pain and suffering. Mother's Friend equips the patient with a strong body and clear intellect, which in turn are imparted to the child. It relaxes the muscles and allows them to expand. It relieves morning sickness and nervousness. It puts all the organs concerned in perfect condition for the final hour, so that the actual labor is short and practically painless. Danger of rising or hard breasts is altogether avoided, and recovery is merely a matter of

SPEECH OF THE HAWAIIANS

Vovrels Run Riot, Consonants Are Few and There Is a Great Literature of Poetry.

Along with territory and a few other things at what has been called the crossroads of the Pacific, the United States has annexed a new language and a somewhat considerable literature owned by the 35,000 left as the remnant of their race. The Hawaiian is not a difficult or crabbed speech. It is soft and musical, most of the white people now in Hawaii speak it more or less fully, and it offers no great difficulty to the others who may be expected to fill up the new domain.

Its most prominent characteristic is the great use of vowels. Besides the five vowels it needs only seven consonants to make up the alphabet, and the one hard and fast rule of the grammar is that two consonants shall never come together and that no word or syllable shall end with other than a vowel. On the other hand, vowels may string along in indefinite succession. The speech abounds with whole words which have not a single consonant to hold them together. Two vowels stand side by side in a majority of words. The opportunity to triplicate the vowel has not been neglected; a combination. Thus "aaa" means friendly, "eee" is the verb to rise up, Four vowels together form many words, as "aaua," a crone or hag with wrinkles under the eyes. Some few words consist of as many as five vowels one after the other, "iiaao," which body-east, and it was broken off, is the name for poi when it is hard and musty, or "oiaio," the word meaning | thought of danger until just a day or | McLane, a son of the man who was

EMIGRATION OF RACES.

Feminine Nationalities Have Emigrated in Profusion Since the Way Was Opened.

It is the masculine races that emigrate. The earliest of the great colonizing peoples, the Phoenicians and Carthaginians, in addition to the "strenuous ferocity" that marked the Semites, possessed an "individual impulse and energy" which (in Grote's opinion) put them greatly above the Egyptians, Assyrians and Hindus. The Greeks were flexible and manysided, and, being fractured into a hundred independent communities, had for the far west, and Tremaine met ers' camp was a mile away. She read aloud to her father, as was her | sufferer nodded. "It is all right now," custom, and clung to him as he kissed her good-night. Merriam had gone early to his room, as though fatigued by the drive or rendered drowsy by the unaccustomed motion in the air. Somewhere about three in the morning there was an unusual sound of voices in excited talk near the guardhouse, and Tremaine awoke and was dressing hurriedly, when rapid steps came up the walk, and the sergeant of the guard, with a dust-covered courier, stood at his door. They bore a note from Whittaker. A serious row had occurred between some of the troop and a party of miners and prospectors who had been camping near them for three days. Pistols were drawn, with the result that one miner was killed, two troopers and one prospector were seriously, perhaps mortally, wounded, and several others were injured. Could Dr. Wells come out to them at once for a few hours, at least, and was Merriam able to ride? The young prospector who was so seriously wounded had begged to see him, as he had important information for him, and bade them tell Mr. Merriam that his name was two ago. Now-if he's going next about to marry Miss Hayward. A penciled note in a closed envelope accompanied the verbal message for Merriam.

Florence, listening at her half-open door as the captain read Whittaker's dispatch aloud to her mother, shrank with her hands and sank to her knees. It was thus she was found a few moments later. Merriam, aroused by the unaccustomed sounds, had lighted his candle and, partially dressed, came Tremaine met and gave him the message and the note, which latter Randy tore open and read with staring eyes. For a moment he stood confounded. then turned sharply to Tremaine: "Now, sir, I've got to go, and go at once -when Wells does," then turned and hurried to his room.

The captain himself aroused his post surgeon, told him the news, and bade possible. The dawn was breaking, and the rosy light was in the eastern sky when the doctor reached his patient, finding him fully dressed and rapidly stowing in his saddle-bags the simple articles of a soldier's toilet.

"This won't do, Randy. You're not fit to stir," said he. But his determination oozed when Merriam, with white face, turned and said:

"More than my life's at stake here, doctor-it's a woman's honor, and I'm going, live or die."

"Come in if I call, but let no one else hear us."

For half an hour the low murmur of voices came from within the "shack," as darkness settled down upon the scene. Died June -, 1892, Mescalero mountains, N. M." Then, dropping the pen, he fell back to his rude pillow, panting and exhausted. Wells quickly gave him stimulant; then he and Whittaker affixed their names as witnesses. A moment later, while the surgeon remained with his patient, the two young officers clasped hands outside.

"You're weak as a child yet, Randy. What is it, old boy?"

"My God! I can't afford to be weak now," was the fierce answer. "I've got to act-to do as I never did before. How long should it take our best rider, our lightest rider, to reach the railway?

Telegrams must go east at once." "If he take the back trail-the one you came in by from Sedgwick-five days and nights, least count. If he go around by the cantonment for fresh horses, perhaps seven."

"My God! my God!" cried Merriam. Even two days may be too long. You're in command, Billy. I can give no orders, but that courier must start pefore moonrise to-night. Don't ask me to tell you why." And within the hour, with a sealed packet addressed to Capt. Lawrence Hayne, —th infantry, Fort Sedgwick, a slim little Irish trooper was loping, all alone, jauntily back toward the valley of the Bravo, smacking his lips in anticipation of the good liquor awaiting him at Santa Fe Junction the moment his duty was done. Five days and nights had he before him of lonely ride through a desolate, almost desert land.

duty and his full assurance of a good time at the journey's end.

Another day and a rude grave was dug in the canyon, and the doctor read the simple service of the church over the shrouded form of the young prospector; and then, against that doctor's wishes, but not without his reluctant consent, Lieut. Merriam, with an escort of two troopers, started in person to ride by the shortest trail to Sedgwick.

It was now the 6th of June. It would take him nearly a week to reach and cross the Santa Clara. It might take him eight days to Sedgwick, and every hour seemed a day. Meantime Dr. Wells set about having litters made for the two wounded troopers, and by the tenth of the month had them safely in gered, Mrs. Tremaine troubled on more than one account, apparently, and Florence pale and languid.

"Did Mr. Merriam send no letter?" asked Mrs. Tremaine, after he had told something of their experiences.

"There was no time to write. He begged me to give you his love and gratitude, to give it to all, and to say he would write in full the moment he got to Sedgwick. Oh, yes, he is bettermuch better, but the nervous strain may bring on a return of the fever," said the doctor. Something of solemn consequence, Wells knew not what, had carried Merriam back to the railway. He might have to go east at once. But Randy never reached the railway. Havne received and read in startled amaze the contents of the packet brought by the courier, and sent at once from the Junction two telegraphic messages-one to Mr. Ned Parry, of the firm of Graeme, Rayburn & Parry, of Chicago; the other to Mr. Abraham Mellen, New York city; .- ceived from the latter neither acknowledgment nor reply, and from the former the brief words: "The marriage took place 48

"What answer?" demanded the lieutenant, abruptly and with wide, burning, bloodshot eyes.

"Too late," said Hayne, "too late by 48 hours."

"You don't mean," gasped Merriam, 'that they are married already?" "That's what Parry wires," was the brief response. "Here's the dispatch." For a moment Merriam sat in saddle,

They made what frontier troops call a "dry camp" that night, just there where the two parties met. There was fuel, a little grass, but no water beyond what they had in their canteens, and with the contents of one of these Hayne brewed a pot of tea while one of the men cooked their frugal supper. They needed no other canopy than that of the heavens in that rare, dry atmosphere, and with the stars for night lights and the waning moon to peep in upon their slumbers later and start the gaun. coyotes at their querulous, unregarded serenade, the troopers slept, or seemed to sleep, until dawn. Twice Hayne awoke to find Merriam staring with burning eyes at the radiant vault aloft, but he wanted nothing, needed nothing: He could not sleep for thinking, he explained, and when the morning came the fever was with him again, and Corporal Tacy galloped northward along the forthills, a long day's ride, to fetch once more the doctor from the cantonmert, and with Wells came the ambulance. The cantonment lay 50 miles away to the north. Sedgwick a hundred to the southeast. It was the nearest port in the storm.

This time Tremaine would have had fitted up for him a room in the big, airy hospital, but his better-half intervened.

"It would never do after our having had him here before," she said. "He must have his old room under our roof and everything he had before-except Florence."

But when, after ten days of burning fever and desperate illness, Randolph Merriam seemed again to realize where he was, and how weak he was, and how good they had been to him, the first name he whispered, the first thing he asked for, looked for, seemed to long for was Florence-and they let her come.

end make a hole through which you can put a strip of leather, whereby to attach a piece of rope to the stick. The rope should be about four inches shorter than the twine. A quarterinch rope is the best size. At the outer end of the rope fasten a ring just big enough to slip over the stick easily. In use proceed as follows: Take the handle and ring in one hand, reach around the shock, pass the ring into the other hand, and then slip the butt end of the handle into the ring. Now, shove the ring along the handle down to the leather, turn the handle out away from the side of the shock, and it will stay there while you deliberately put the twine around and tie. Throw the handle back, release the ring, and go to the next shock." Mr. Amstutz believes that he is the originator of this device, but he is willing that others should use it without charge.

Flax with Other Grain.

Under some conditions it may be advisable to grow flax with other grain. Flax is a very exhaustive crop, but in this fact lies the advantage when grain is sown on very rich land in mixing some flaxseed with it. If the flax is not grown the grain will grow too rank a straw, while with the flax to help exhaust the superfluous fertility there is less danger of this. There will be more of the grain grown, while all of the flaxseed that is harvested will be so much clear gain. Barley is one of the best grains to grow with flax, and both are ready to cut at the same time. But both should be very lightly seeded if clover seed is sown the same spring, else there will be a poor catch of clover .-American Cultivator.

Most of the time I was unfitted for manual labor of any kind, and my sufferings were at all times intense. At times I was bent almost double, and got around only with the greatest difficulty. Nothing seemed to give me permanent relief until three years ago, when my attention was called to some of the wonderful cures effected by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. I had not taken more than half a box when I noticed an improvement in my condition, and I kept on improving steadily. I took three boxes of the pills, and at the end of that time was in better condition than at any time since the close of my army service. #### KNOWLEDGE ENOUGH.

Although She Was from Boston She Cared Not for a Higher Subject Than Beans.

Notwithstanding her nose turned up, there were specs on it, and she was from Boston, which may be considered to be competent testimony that heredity isn't everything. She was visiting in Brooklyn before the hot spell and the first young man she met was one who prides himself on his intellectuals. Whether anyone else does or not is another story. As it happened, the young man had an opportunity shortly after the meeting to talk with the young woman alone, and he did not fail to throw a few brains at her.
"Ah, Miss Sophia," he said, with a soulful yearn in his gentle voice, "I presume you attend several of the numerous schools of philosophy in which Boston is so rich and Brooklyn is so poor?"

"I am sorry," she hesitated, "but really,
Mr. Blank, I do not attend any."

"Indeed, and do you feel no interest in any of the concepts of modern philosophic "None whatever, I fear," and she really seemed to be sorry to have been so careless of her golden, glorious opportunities. "And does not the subjective idealism of existence in delightful Boston profoundly affect the reality of your Ego?" 'So far I have not observed that it did,"

she said, apologetically. "How can it be possible?" he exclaimed. The sphere of your knowledge must be far wider than it is with us. "No," she answered, measuring her words carefully. "I should say it was not. Don't you know as long as we Bostonians know beans when the bag's open we don't worry overmuch about the rest of . Why should we? Isn't that enough for us to know?"

TWENTY-FIVE DOLLARS FINE

For Wearing a Calico Dress and $100 Penalty for Selling the Goods.

It is a singular fact, but none the less true, that in England in the year 1700 women were not allowed to wear calico dresses at all, and in 1721 a penalty or fine of £5 was laid upon the wearer, and the unfortunate dealer who sold calico in those days had to pay a penalty of $100 for the offense. It is hardly necessary to say that no one of them ever undertook to sell more than one dress pattern. The women of this country may bless their lucky stars that nothing has ever interfered with their privilege to buy and wear calico to their heart's content. Moreover, they can be thankful that they are able to purchase the best quality the world produces right here at home. The goods of one firm are especially sought after by both consumers and dealers and their recognized superiority is assured when the name William Simpson & Sons is found on the ticket. At least that is what the ladies and the storekeepers say, and they ought to know.

Unshaken Confidence. "It's always pretty safe to judge a man by the company he keeps.' "Oh, I don't know. There are exceptions. My Uncle John's business makes it necessary for him to associate with aldermen a good deal, and still I'd trust him with every dollar I've got in the world.—Chicago Even-

"I can keep books, sell goods, drive delivery wagon, compound prescriptions, set type and do farm work." The stranger scribbled a few words on a card, handed the tramp $1 and said: "Take this card to this address, and I think it will get you work. Take that dollar, get a bath, a shave, a hair cut, something to eat and a drink of whisky. That will brace you to meet my friend. So long!"

"There's just one thing more," said Braceville, Ill., writes: "I had never the tramp. "How do you happen to give me just $1 and all these directions

Bedtime In Canada.

Any one who has visited Canada realizes the difference between Yankee hustling and the easy going way they do things up there. "I should love to go visiting in Canada," tays a tired Mildred? wanderer, "if the people there ever went to bed." "They never go to bed, and they never get up," commented a Hibernian who had been there.

Something must be wrong with the old axiom of how to be healthy, wealthy and wise, for the first at least these Canadians are, and they rarely go to bed much before midnight, nor breakfast much before 9 o'clock. It is an old country custom handed down and comfortably enjoyed. The 9:30 p. m. bedtime of American domesticity is there unknown, and the 7:30 breakfast be-

The Astute Lion.

One day a toothless lion, whose muscles were unstrung by age, lay in a shady place by the streamlet side. He set up a dismal groaning, which soon drew a crowd of hyenas around

"What is the matter?" they asked. He explained to them that the days of his kingship were over, and with tears pouring down his face protested that he was unable to defend himself

His Worst Offense.

When it was proposed to lessen the list of crimes punished by death, Lord Eldon objected to the noose being banished in cases of petty shoplifting. "The exemption," said the old Tory lord photograph is in your album!" chancellor.

Another Tory, a judge, so venerated the sovereign that he included in his regard any article belonging to the king, no matter how far removed from actual possession. A tailor had been condemned for the murder of a soldier, and the one word would seem as well as another, judge tacked on this addition to the and 'Carlo' occurred to me first. The sentence of death:

"And not only did you murder him, but you did thrust or push or pierce or project or propel the lethal weapon through the belly band of his breeches, which were his majesty's!"

Past Salaries of Actors.

A number of autograph letters of Edmund Kean supply some interesting information about the salaries of actors early in the century. One relates to an offer by Mr. Ellison offering Kean £3 a week as acting manager of "the new theater in Wych street." Later this rose as high as £25 a month. In 1826 Kean was offered $12,000 a year to go to America. In the prime of his popularity he received £200 for a week in Edinburgh, and apparently reached the highest point when Mr. Bunn wrote from the Theater Royal, Dublin, on Feb. 8, 1829, and offered him £50 a night to play in Dublin and Cork .-Liverpool Mercury.

Life of a Battleship.

Naval experts have put down the active life of a modern battleship at about 15 years. A hundred years ago battleships lasted nearly six times as long and were on active service nearly the whole time of their commission. The Victory, for instance, was 40 years old when she acted as Nelson's flagship at the memorable battle of Trafalgar. A line of battle ship, the Royal William, was built at Chatham in 1670 and was not broken up until 1813, being rebuilt several times before her final demise.

The Laplanders drink a great deal of smoked snow water, and one of the national drinks of the Tonquinese is arrack flavored with chickens' blood.

MATRIMONIAL.

"Oh, Mildred, I'm so glad you have called! I'm in great trouble. That dreadful husband of mine! Oh, my heart will break! I know it will!"

Mrs. Mosely's young spinster friend closed the sitting room door of the pretty "What do you want?" was the reply Kensington flat and prepared for a revelation of connubial tyranny and iniquity. "Read that!" cried Mrs. Mosely, holding out at arm's length a newspaper with her thumb nail pressed viciously into one corner of an advertisement column and then bursting into fresh tears. Mildred Clarke read as follows:

"Matrimony.-Bachelor, 36, going to the colonies, tall, dark, educated and well connected, with fair income, desires the acquaintance of a healthy, domesticated and refined young lady with a view to marriage. Address 'Carlo,' Guilford Chambers, Leadenhall Street, E. C." "Why, your husband's offices are at Guilford chambers!"

"But it is impossible that he can contemplate committing such a crime."

"I am sure he is bad enough for anything. Only the day before yesterday, just because I said I wished I had never seen his face-he was so provoking in consequence of the eggs being boiled hard-he said that if I really meant it he would go abroad and start life again in one of the colonies. It shows that his mind was running on deserting me. Oh, Mildred, what can I do?"

"I hardly know, dear. It looks seri-"Have you any scheme in your mind.

"Yes. First of all, we will answer the advertisement in person."

"In person?" "Fortunately I have never yet succeeded in meeting your husband, so he doesn't know me. You shall accompany me as a friend, for propriety's sake, in disguise, you know.'

An hour later two ladies were shown into the private office of Mr. Mosely. "Are you the gentleman who has advertised under the name 'Carlo?' " asked Mil-

He ran forward and caught her in his arms. The words "my wife" told Mildred in a flash that Mr. Mosely had known Ethel all the time in her disguise.

"Ethel, darling," he cried as his wife opened her eyes, "it's all a joke. I knew you all the time. The advertisement is for "Golly," chuckled the lion, "I'm a friend of mine. How can you doubt my

Then the general public would not know that 'Carlo' was likely to be found at Mr. Mosely's office rather than at one of the 50 other offices in this building. Finally you seem to have forgotten that, though I had small shopkeepers will be ruined by this never before met Miss Mildred Clarke, her

"But I must ask you," said Mrs. Mosely severely, "to give me an explanation as to the real 'Carlo,' " "He is an old schoolfellow of mine. We drew up the advertisement together, and I let him use this address. I adopted the word 'Carlo' for the simple reason that bachelor's name is Herbert Carter. You shall see him." Mr. Mosely rang his bell. A tall and handsome man entered and was presented to the two ladies. "Miss Clarke, I may tell you." said Mr. Mosely, "has called in reply to your advertisement."

Mildred blushed and attempted an inmains that in the following month she went out to Australia as Mrs. Herbert qualities, hear the special low prices in Carter.—Philadelphia Item.

The Streets of Ancient Athens. It has been said that the streets of Athens, when the city was the center of attraction of the intellectual world, resembled those of Bulgarian and Turkish towns by their narrowness and irregularity. Strangers, when they first walked along them, used to be in doubt whether they could have arrived in so famous a city. Owing to the labors of the members of the German Archæological institute it has become certain that Athens possessed one street at least which was tolerably wide It was laid out between the Dipylon at the wall on the northwest and the Agora, and was therefore north of the Theseion. The width of the roadway was about 10 meters, or 33 feet. As the Greeks, with all their ability, had not Macadam's shrewdness, the ancient street was made up of layers of earth, which required repairs constantly. One reason for the exceptional breadth was that originally a brook ran along one side, and when it was covered over the additional space was allowed to increase the road.-London Architect.

Rifled Firearms.

In the South Kensington museum are several wheel lock muskets with rifled barrels made during the reign of Charles I, if not earlier. Such barrels were then usually called "screwed." Zachary Grey, in a note on "Hudibras," part i, canto iii. line 533, says that Prince Rupert showed his skill as a marksman by hitting twice in succession the vane on St. Mary's Stafford at 60 yards with a "screwed" pistol.-Notes and Queries.
